MPower Technologies; a Strategic Focus for the Not-for-Profit Sector .

Toronto, ON – June 1, 2007 -- MPowertechnologies.com announced a strategic shift with an additional focus on the not-for-profit sector. MPower Technologies is a leader for the small to mid-market making a sophisticated and powerful portal technology now affordable for companies who want to grow their on-line business strategically and profitably, while reducing the cost to operate their business

"We are extremely excited and proud of our new business focus" said Carolyn Tucker, the VP of New Business Development. "Our portal technology will become the essential platform for the not-for-profit sector. Government funding cutbacks and growing business demands have pushed this business segment to focus on new ways to grow and thrive". "Now we are now empowering an industry that is looking for a pragmatic and useful business tool; that is inexpensive and easy to use to communicate, service and do financial transaction with their members, committees, board members and volunteers on-line" said Michael Janssen, President and CEO.

MPower Technologies has continued to grow and lead the charge for the small to mid-market for clients who want a streamlined solution that will help them manage their business more effectively and grow their services, with both their employees, remote customer and business partners. "Since our Oct. 2003 product release, we have seen a growing need to provide vertical market, tailored solutions within our portal framework", said Carolyn Tucker, the VP of New Business Development. . "Now with the latest strategic step; MPower is poised to dominate the not-for-profit sector for many years to come.
